Commander Dempf has issued orders to have all boats of the naval militia, including the two steam launches, two motor boats and two wheleboats, to make regular trips to the fleet which will be anchored in the Georgetown channel during this week. Visitors will not be allowed on the vessels at night, but the naval militia boats will make trips to the Georgetown channel and cruise around the vessels, giving the friends of the officers and men a chance to see these fighting vessels. All boats will be in charge of officers. Ensign Wilbert E. Locklin has been designated as boat officer.

Officers and men of the Naval Bat-Officers and men of the Naval Battalion have been instructed to report at the armory at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning to participate in the parade of the Grand Army of the Republic. The naval militiamen will turn out in blue uniforms, with white hats and leggings, the regulation marching uniform of the navy.

Commander Dempf has urged all of the men to make an effort to participate in this parade as a tribute to the citizen soldiery who answered the call to arms in the 60s, telling them that this is probably the last time they will thave a chance to honor these men.

the author of several books dealing with the law. Supervises Information Bureaus. No committee having to do with arrangements for the encampment or on their arrival in Washington has had more to do than the committee on incharman. Through the efforts of this committee the two street railway companies were induced to prepare for general free distribution, small but compact and complete guide books to the National Capital, the books containing in condensed form a mass of general information regarding the many points of interest in and near the city of inestimable value to visiting strangers. The various information bureaus that have been established at many points in the heart of the city are also under the supervision and direction of this committee. He has handled large crowds at these gatherings, and attended to the decorations and the many arrangements necessary to take care of such gatherings. He is a prominent Mason, having been potentate of Almas Temple.

Civic and Commercial Boo

There is scarcely a man in the National Capital more firmly established n the minds of his friends as a civic and commercial booster than R. P. drews, president of the Retail Merchants' Association and a member of chants' Association and a member of the encampment executive committee. Ever since locating in Washington Mr. Andrews has identified his name and given generously of his time and means to movements and organizations en-gaged in betterment work in Wash-ington. This spirit of co-operation on Mr. Andrews' part has brought his name to the roster of practically every organization in the National Capital.

Leader in City's Uplift.

John Joy Edson, a member of the executive committee, for years has de voted his time, aside from his business, to the work of uplifting the poore and surroundings so as to aid in mak and surroundings so as to aid in making them better citizens. His most important work has been as chairman of the penal commission, composed of Justice Stafford of the District Supreme Court and Mr. La Dow of the Department of Justice, which has had charge of improving the surroundings of prisoners. This commission adopted the outdoor plan of life for the prisoners which has been worked to such a success at the District workhouse at Occoquan.
